Persona

Name: Alex – Student / beginner storyteller. Alex has creative ideas but limited illustration and layout experience. Alex wants a quick way to experiment with short stories and see them as a finished comic.

SAYS	THINKS
"I have an idea, but I cannot draw all the panels."	Can the system keep the character and story consistent?
"I want to choose the mood and art style."	I want to see the result before downloading it.
"I need something I can share easily."	A PDF would be useful for submission or sharing.
DOES	FEELS
Enters a prompt and character details.	Excited when the idea becomes visual.
Chooses setting, tone and art style.	Concerned about output quality and consistency.
Reviews the preview and exports the comic.	Satisfied when the workflow is simple and complete.

Design implication

The interface should minimize unnecessary steps, expose only useful creative controls, provide a panel preview, and offer a clear export path. Error messages should explain missing configuration such as API tokens rather than failing silently.
